INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. – InnoPower, LLC and Recorder Media Group will host the 2020 InnoPower Minority Business Conference on August 28-29, 2020. The two-day virtual summit will focus on the health of Indiana's economy and communities.

InnoPower, LLC launched InnoPower Indy in 2019 to drive innovation through diversity and inclusion. "The opportunity to partner with Recorder Media Group and Indiana Minority Business Magazine to rebrand and enhance the event is one we couldn't turn down," said Emil Ekiyor, founder of InnoPower. "As we examine the impact of 2020; collaboration, support and change are imperative more than ever before."

We're all #INthistgether has been the rallying cry for a state, nation and world thrown into chaos. "From the health of our families to the health of our businesses, 2020 has been a year of mass disruption and devastation," said Robert Shegog, President and CEO of Recorder Media Group. "Our Beyond 2020 theme recognizes that recovery from the current downturn could take even longer than the recovery from the last crisis, especially for the minority business community."

InnoPower will also welcome the Honorable Eric J. Holcomb, Indiana's 51st Governor, as over 100 speakers from across the globe take the stage at this year's event. "It is a privilege to join InnoPower. As we work together to get Indiana back on track, and stay on track, we're working hand in hand with our minority business community to foster an environment that empowers all Hoosiers," said Governor Holcomb.

"We're incredibly humbled to welcome Governor Holcomb to this year's event," said Rupal Thanawala, Event Chair for the INNOPOWER Minority Business Conference. "It is an honor to work directly with the State of Indiana as we turn our attention Beyond 2020 to a thriving and more equitable future for us all."
